Corunna, Michigan - Liberty Renewable Fuels, LLC, a Shiawassee County, Michigan-based company, announced today that it has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission for an initial public offering of up to 20,000 of its Class A membership units.

Liberty Renewable Fuels is a development-stage company that was organized in June 2006 to develop, construct, own and operate an ethanol plant to be located in central Michigan.

With the sales of its membership units in its initial public offering, Liberty intends to build and operate a 110-million gallon per year dry mill corn-processing ethanol plant in Ithaca, Michigan, located about 45 miles north of Lansing. The company expects the ethanol plant will annually process approximately 40 million bushels of corn into approximately 110-million gallons of fuel-grade ethanol and 354,000 tons of distillers grains for animal feed.

When available, a written preliminary prospectus related to the offering may be obtained from Liberty Renewable Fuels, 3508 E M-21, Corunna, Michigan 48817. An electronic version of the submitted prospectus has been posted by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which can be found at:
